THE HARDWICK BROTHERS

Hailing from Middlesbrough, UK, George and Harry Hardwick are two of Cage Warriors' biggest personalities. Known for their obsessions with retro gaming, classic rock and Chicken Parm sandwiches, the joking stops when the cage door locks, and the pair transform into two of the toughest, hard-nosed brawlers to strap on the famous yellow gloves.

TOBIAS HARILA

Entering the cage to the ominous sounds of The Purge siren, Sweden's Harila is Cage Warriors' resident killer clown. His knockout power and proclivity for all-out brawls are enough to give any lightweight nightmares.

LUKE RILEY

Perhaps the biggest prospect in all of European MMA, Luke Riley is the latest fighter to emerge from Liverpool's Next Generation gym, following in the footsteps of teammates Paddy 'The Baddy' Pimblett and 'Meatball' Molly McCann. A sizzling striker with no reverse gear, Riley is pure entertainment.

ANTHONY OROZCO

An elite amateur athlete with a 2022 Pan-Am gold medal under his belt, San Diego's Anthony Orozco has made the leap to the professional ranks where he remains undefeated. As charismatic outside the cage as he is dangerous within it, Orozco has all the making of a future MMA superstar.

SEAN CLANCY JR

With a glittering amateur mixed martial arts career in his rear-view mirror, Scotland's Sean Clancy Jr is now regarded as one of the preeminent prospects on the European circuit. Having already bested a wealth of more experienced fighters, Clancy's looks set to skyrocket to stardom.

CHASEN BLAIR

A former NCAA wrestling standout for the North Carolina Tar Heels, Chasen Blair has transitioned his elite athleticism and undeniable skillset to the world of Mixed Martial Arts with great effect. Now known as much for his devastating striking as he is grappling, Blair has all the tools to take the MMA world by storm.
